

EXERCISE OF DIVERTING PIXELLIZATION!

It is as part of my training in Webdesigner License, that I realized an exercise that was to divert the pixel in an original way.

My first thought when I heard the word pixel, was to think of a video game and more specifically to Mario.

After looking at what was already done on the theme of pixelation, I'm stumbling upon an artist who pixelated an image by replacing the square with circles and I found this idea awesome.

So I decided to get inspired and remake the most iconic character of video games (Mario).

Photo that inspired me

